Modern Slavery and Human Rights Policy and Evidence Centre

Assessing the effectiveness of interventions to prevent modern slavery

1. Welcome and housekeeping

Housekeeping

- All participants are on mute and with video off until the Q&A
- Please feel free to ask a question at any time, we will pick these up in the Q&A
- If you have a technical problem (e.g. audio not working) please post it in the Chat and we will do our best to fix it
- We are recording this webinar and will share it online afterwards but we will not share the Q&A section
- The Modern Slavery PEC meeting rules will be shared in the chat

Agenda

12.30pm-1pm

Introduction to the Modern Slavery PEC & overview of this research call, including the application process

Q&A

2. Introduction to the Modern Slavery PEC

The purpose of the Centre

The Modern Slavery and Human Rights Policy and Evidence Centre exists to:

- transform the effectiveness of laws and policies designed to address it.
- enhance understanding of modern slavery across the globe and

What is the Modern Slavery PEC?

- We fund impartial research but don't stop there
- We use the evidence to drive real policy change
- We connect research and policymaking
- We promote evidence more widely
- We collaborate and bring people together

Main Research Areas

Four broad areas:

- Survivor Support and Recovery
- Prevention
- Business supply chains
- Effectiveness of legal enforcement

Plus:

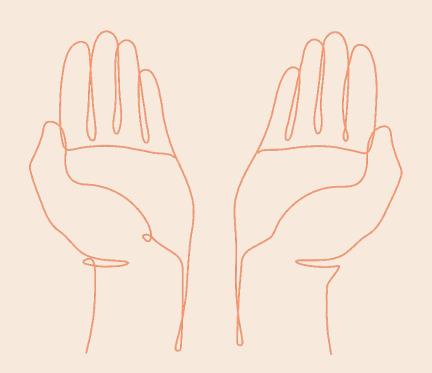

Crosscutting themes

Led by the University of Oxford

Research guiding principles

- 1. Effectiveness
- 2. Equity
- 3. Survivor involvement

3. Overview of this research call

Background and rationale

- Building on existing PEC research into the prevention of modern slavery
- Synthesis work identified before/early and re-trafficking as evidence gaps within the evidence base
- Aim for this call is to review existing interventions to explore the effectiveness of interventions

Objectives

The essential objectives are to:

- A. Assess the effectiveness of an intervention/s that aim(s) to prevent exploitation before it occurs, or at an early stage, or interventions that specifically aim to prevent re-exploitation/re-trafficking.
- B. Describe the underpinning theoretical framework (e.g. a theory of change/log frame)
- C. Employ rigorous and robust methodologies to consider how an intervention could be replicated and scaled up
- D. Generate impactful insights and recommendations for practice and UK policymakers on the effectiveness of prevention interventions and the effectiveness of the underlying theoretical framework.
- E. We would welcome reflections on the equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI) considerations of an intervention and potential prevention inequalities.

Objectives

Desirable objectives:

- A. Explore innovative and creative methods of engaging lived experience
- B. If assessing multiple interventions, this needs to be done on the basis that these interventions all share sufficient characteristics such that they are already comparable

Scope (1/2)

- Projects should be assessing or evaluating an existing intervention that aims to prevent exploitation before it occurs, or at an early stage, or an intervention that specifically aims to prevent re-exploitation/re-trafficking
- Projects looking solely at the "treatment of harms" stage of the prevention of harms are out of scope for this call.
- For this call, an intervention is a service or specific activity undertaken for the purpose of the prevention of exploitation or re-exploitation

Scope (2/2)

- Legal and policy frameworks are out of scope for this call
- This call cannot be used to fund the delivery of an intervention, only the research to assess the effectiveness of intervention.
- All interventions assessed in this call should be relevant to UK policy, but can be internationally based
- Applicants are encouraged to limit the scope further, e.g. geographically

Advice for making a strong bid

- The rationale for selecting an intervention must be justified in your application, including
 - How the intervention is relevant to UK policy
 - How it links to prevention either before harms occurs or at an early stage, or the prevention of re-trafficking
- Applicants should use the BETR (before, early, treatment, re-trafficking) continuum of prevention and the associated pathways to prevention:
 - Access to fundamental things in life
 - Literacy (including in-depth understanding of exploitation and rights)
 - Community power and control
 - Deterrence and disruption
 - Building partnerships and coordination

4. The application process

Call deadline	4pm, 11 November 2024
Panel meeting	w/c 18 November 2024
Moderation	End of November 2024
Interviews with top applicants	Early December 2024
Final decision	Mid-December 2024
Project start	January 2025
Project set up	February 2025
End of project	Early 2026

Eligibility

- Projects may be led by either a UK higher education institution, an approved research organisation eligible to receive UKRI funding or a charity registered in the UK with a focus on modern slavery.
- Project teams must include at least one academic or research organisation and one registered charity.
- International Co-leads are eligible for this call.
- We request that Principal Investigators (lead researcher) only appear on one application for this call.
- There is no limit to the number of applications eligible organisations can submit, and the restrictions only apply to individuals within those organisations.

Funding available

- A maximum budget of £100,000 at 100% full economic cost (FEC) per project.
- The Modern Slavery PEC expects to fund up to two projects for this work, one with a focus on before/early prevention, and a second on re-trafficking
- Higher education institutes and approved research organisations will receive 80% FEC.
- UK based third sector organisations may apply for up to 50% of the project's budget, they will be funded at 100% FEC.
- International organisations are eligible to apply as partners to this call and can receive up to 30% of the budget, paid at 100% FEC.
- The combined UK charity and international organisation budget cannot exceed 50% of the total award.
